Dear Thomas J. Newton,

My family & I all depend on my salary as a fisherman. With all of these sea lampreys around my fish supply is going down dramatically. Please, Great Lakes Fishery Commission, help all of us. We need this money. The fish are our lifelines. I think you & your company could easily come up with something to get these pests away. These lampreys suck blood - everything else out of the fish. They are taking away our business! This is even affecting our economy.

Before those pests we had plenty of fish, about 15 million pounds. Now, we only have about 300,000 pounds. This is a very devastating & crippling occurrence for everyone.

Sincerely

Milly
